PREVENTED PANIC BY PRAYER.

Ludlow, Ky.—The presence of mind of Sister Vincent of the order of Sisters of Charity prevented a panic and perhaps serious loss of life among the children during a fire in the St. James parochial school today.

Forty children were cut off on an upper floor. The nun restrained the children from leaping from windows, and led by her the little ones knelt and prayed for deliverance, which was soon effected by the fire department by the aid of extension ladders.

There are 120 pupils in attendance upon St. James's Catholic school, the class rooms occupying several floors. During the morning fire started in the basement from the furnace. Smoke quickly filled the building, making it impossible for those above to find their way out. In the top story forty children were alone in the study room. Sister Vincent made her way to the smoke-filled room. She drew some of the terrified children back from the windows, and then, telling them that help would soon be at hand, commanded them to fall on their knees and pray. All knelt and were still on their knees when the firemen entered the room and rescued all. Not one was injured, though several were nearly overcome by heat and smoke. Sister Mary Vincent related to leave the room till the last child had been taken out.—Chicago Tribune.

CRACKED HIS NEW SHELL

Dr. Jekyll Has Crawled Back Into Mr. Hyde's Old One.

"Rev. Joseph Anderson" is no more. He passed out of that shell yesterday and went back into his old one of George Hayford, which is also no doubt only a temporary abiding place and only one of many in which he has concealed his identity from an inquisitive public. Ever since Deputy Sheriff Hopkins, who came after him, saw him in his cell on Sunday, he denied that he was Hayford, but yesterday he admitted that he was.

The habeas corpus proceedings begun in his behalf have fallen to the ground. His arrest on a charge of being a fugitive from justice cures the defects complained of in the petition for the writ. While he would probably be discharged on a hearing he would immediately be arrested and taken away on a requisition. So that though there is a hole in the wall through which he might crawl it only brings up against a wall in which there is no hole. Hayford says that the people of California have only a civil case against him anyhow. Deputy Sheriff Hopkins left last night for Santa Barbara with his prisoner.

When he first met the prisoner Sunday morning, Mr. Hopkins said: "How do you do, Mr. Hayford?" The latter replied, "My name is not Hayford, sir, and I don't know you." "Oh, yes it is," said the officer, "and I think I shall have to take you back to Santa Barbara with me. Then he gave Hayford a good cigar, after which they were on better terms.

Hayford's method of operation was not to stay in one town too long and after his departure, if followed by troublesome bills he settled them by writing checks and drafts on banks which knew him not. Mr. Hopkins said that while the charge against him is only for misdemeanors, it is not improbable that a felony charge may be made later of some of the counts, but if not, the list of misdemeanors is long enough to keep the prisoner in the county jail through succeeding sentences, till long after the novelty has worn off.

He has a wife and two daughters, the wife being in Santa Barbara and the daughters in San Francisco. The wife is a Russian and he is said to be a Highlander, though Hayford is not a Dutch name. That strengthens the suspicion that there are others in his "repertoire."

On the occasion of Hayford's departure from Santa Barbara, which was between two days, the officers were only fifteen minutes behind him, but that was long enough and it is pretty well established that he left on foot as the boats and trains were watched closely.

As to the relations between Hayford and his wife, the officers are uncertain about their friendliness. They suspect that she was keeping in touch with him, though she willingly furnished the picture by which he was identified and said that since their marriage the man had cost her a considerable fortune. Some intimation was given of prospective divorce proceedings, but no steps have been taken and it may be only a bluff. Color is added to the latter belief by the fact that Mrs. Hayford is somewhat at odds with the ladies of San Jose, who accuse her of a little sharp practice in the obtaining of money. They say she represented herself to be a fashionable modiste and proceeded to spoil all their good cloth and return for it some very poor dresses. Some of them have even suggested that she should also be legally dealt with for her false pretenses.

Hayford lived in Santa Barbara about two months and while there opened up a conspicuous law office, but the only client Mr. Hopkins could remember his ever going into court with was a man who served a term in Polson and was brought back by Mr. Hopkins for trial on another charge.

In fact he had hardly got into court with this client, for his case is not tried yet and after Hayford skipped out, Mrs. Hayford became interested in the prisoner and secured another lawyer for him, a man by the name of Crowe.

Mr. Hopkins says he desires to acknowledge publicly the kind offices of Marshal Kinney and his force, as well as the courtesies extended by the sheriff and deputies and by Justice Burnett. He says Phoenix is an eye-opener, as people in Santa Barbara imagine Arizona is mostly Indians. He says he likes the place and would like to live here.

He said the officers should charge their memories with the general appearance of his prisoner, for if Hayford likes Phoenix as well as he does he will be back again if he ever regains his liberty. But Mr. Hayford's opinion of Phoenix was not sought.

EGYPTIAN LOTUS FLOWER.

An Egyptian lotus flower, the first in Colorado, has been grown by R. V. Pickett of Lakewood. The flower has just ceased blooming with the autumn, after having had six blooms during the summer. Mr. Pickett is a member of the state horticultural board, and has wide experience as a florist and a gardener. He has only one plant of the lotus.

The lotus grows in water about two feet deep, putting up a large, round leaf from a stem directly in the center. The leaf is covered with a velvety nap, which keeps drops of water from penetrating its texture, so that they will roll around on its surface like drops of quicksilver. The flower comes late in the summer, being put forth on a thin stalk projecting about a foot over the leaf. The flower is of a delicate peachblow tint, and has a strong though delicate color, quite unlike the perfume of any other flower. It is about eight inches in diameter and shaped somewhat like a tulip. It lasts three days, and then falls to pieces. Mr. Pickett says that he will make efforts to grow more of these flowers next year. They are not unknown in the east, but very few are to be found in the west.—Denver Times.

SORT OF A TEETOTALER.

Police Judge Al Fritz tells a good story on himself, which is too good to let pass. While among the South Siders the other day doing missionary work in his own behalf the judge came upon a man who is a power in his ward and of whose friendship his honor was somewhat in doubt. That the man might be turned from the error of his way, Judge Fritz labored with him long and hard. Finally, after much effort, the man seemed to be won over, greatly to the rejoicing of the dispenser of high grade justice.

"Now," said Fritz, "will you have a drink?"

"Oh, yes, if you insist," was the answer. "I don't care if I do. But, say, if it's all the same to you, I'd rather have a check."—San Francisco Wave.

Bath Robes

To own one of our new robes is a real pleasure to the woman who likes to be comfortable these cold evenings. They are here in all the soft, pretty shades of elderdown, tied with cord and tassels about the waist and well made and finished. There is perhaps no article of wearing apparel from which your wife, mother or sister can derive as much solid comfort "around the house" as from one of these bath robes.

Dress Skirts

We are in receipt of an invoice of new skirts from our New York office sent especially for the holiday trade. Almost all the new creations will be found among them: prominent among which is the solid tucked flounced skirt. We are equally as strong on short as on long skirts, and have a complete line of both kinds in corduroys, chevrons, flannels, serges, kerseys, golf cloths, etc.

All the new shades of blue, brown, black and gray mixtures. Prices as usual are right.

Dress Goods

There is nothing more appropriate for a Christmas gift than a pattern for a dress.

Our line is even more complete than usual this season and here can be found all the new ideas from this and other countries.

We make a specialty of black goods in fine qualities, also of black silks.

The saying hereabouts is, "If you want dress goods right, go to Goldwater's."
